The residence halls often become a refuge for students during their time in college. Living in close quarters forces people to find different ways to adapt and get along with others. While shouts are often heard from Mauney and Lutz, the other side of campus may be more quiet but just as wild in its own unique way. Most girls like to watch movies or play games as a group, but for one certain hall, one night consisted of a burial of a unique friend. According to Freshman MiChaela Bryson, "We had a burial for a grow-a-doll. Students were walking by looking at us and were probably thinking we had gone mad. Rachel, our R.A., started to cry as if a real person had died. By the end of the night, I thought we had all lost our minds." As for the boy's hall, nightly activities include popular video games such as Madden Football '07 and '08 and Guitar Hero II. Then, there are halls that may play pranks such as wrapping a car in plastic or play "hall games" such as tennis. "Mauney is so much fun at night. We always are playing some type of game in the halls. The next day I normally have battle wounds from the games," says Freshman Chris Lewis. No matter what residence halls GWU students live in or visit, girls' or boys', there is always something fun going on!

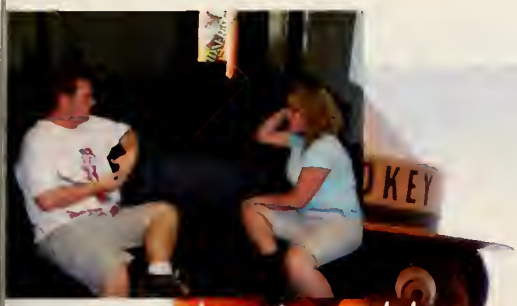
After Hours

When students go off to college, the nightlife becomes an important part of their weekly routine. Many students spend their nights at the Broad River Coffee Company, socializing with friends or studying for their upcoming tests. Others do not mind the drive down to Charlotte, NC to take part in the social scene there. Whether it is clubbing with friends, grabbing a bite to eat at a foreign restaurant, or shopping, students are never too far from fun. "For me, the thing I look forward to the most about the night is hanging out with my friends. I like how we play games in the halls or just chill and watch a movie. I also enjoy the late night runs out to Cookout," says Freshman Lisa Meekins. There are, of course, other students who use the night time to study. "I use the night to catch up on my school work. I like to have the weekend to spend with my friends or to go home. I don't mind missing out on some of the nightly activities on the hall, but I always try to put my school work first," says Freshman Class President Chad Roseboro. Schoolwork comes first, but Gardner-Webb students are always on the lookout for fun.

Schools Out

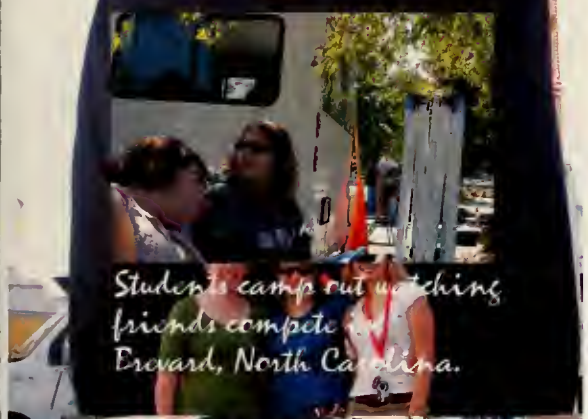
Where Students Disappear after hours.

Whether it's camping, going out to eat with friends, or enjoying one of the many activities provided by the Student Entertainment Association, Gardner-Webb University and the general Western Piedmont region provide students with ample opportunities to seek adventure or a little R & R when the timing for cracking the books is done. With the mountains and the ocean with a day's drive, how can a student be bored?



Lounging and deep conversations keep students occupied.

The black and white formal kept students out late into the night.



Students camp out watching friends compete in Brevard, North Carolina.

Circut racing in Brevard, Mark Reid and Brian Cooper enjoy the fast pace.

Roller costers, bumper cars and county fairs are all draws for Gardner-Webb students seeking fun when studies are done.

Welcome to the Webb!

Out Of the Kennel.

One of GWU students' new favorite things to do during the week is to go fellowship with each other at Chic-Fil-A on Tuesday night, and IHOP on Wednesday night. This is because these places welcome our students in all their loudness and give them discounts on these special nights. This has become a hot spot for the students to spend time with one another and congregate, to relax during the week and just forget about class and any work that needs to be done. Students discuss everything from the hottest gossip to politics to theology with all of their friends around them at the table. These nights are nights to remember and share with friends old and new alike.

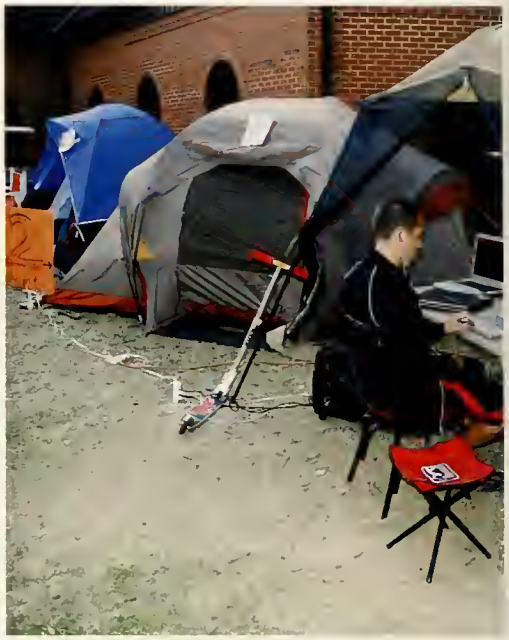
GWU students picnic on the lawn, share birthday cake, and have a good time "grubbing out" with friends.

Roughin' It for NYC!



Brian Arnold, Assistant Director of Student Activities, was in charge of the students who went on the NYC trip. Gardner-Webb took the first 100 students to sign up on the trip to NYC to watch the men's basketball team participate in the Coaches vs. Cancer Classic. The students began camping out around 8pm on the Friday, November 9th and the tickets were to go on sale Monday, November 11th at 6:00am. During the weekend, the students camped out along side the building. The students were helped out by the Men's Basketball Coach, Rick Scruggs, who brought them pizza twice during the weekend. Also on Sunday, November 10th, Dr. Bonner came and brought them food as well. The students had to pay $50 for their trip to NYC. Each student had to camp out for their spot. The rest of the trip was sponsored by Student Activities, SGA, and the Dawg Pound.

Once the students got into NYC they went to their hotel to drop off their luggage before going to the first game of the weekend. After the game, many of the students returned to the hotel, but other students seized every moment in an attempt to see the entire city. The next day many students left the hotel early Friday morning to be on some of the early shows filmed in NYC. The students were allowed to tour the city during the day as long as they were in groups of three. Many students saw Yankee Stadium, the Statue of Liberty, China Town, Ground Zero, Central Park, plus many other things in the city. On Friday evening, Gardner-Webb played Oklahoma. After the game, some students watched part of the next game, while other students went back out to capture a few more moments of the wonderful city. The buses left NYC at 11:00pm on Friday evening and arrived in Boiling Springs at 10:30am Saturday morning. Most of the students slept the entire way home!

Homecoming 2007 was an exciting time. Many people came out to see who would be crowned the next Gardner-Webb Homecoming Queen. Students voted anxiously for the person who they wanted to win. While many girls entered the contest, only one could win the crown. The young ladies of GWU showed up looking very lovely, some escorted by their family and friends. Out of all the girls, Liz Honeycutt was the one chosen to be the next 2007-2008 Gardner-Webb Homecoming Queen. She was crowned by last year's Queen, Allison Blackwell. Miss Honeycutt was escorted down to the football field by her father. She also had other family and friends there to watch and support her while she received the crown. Congratulations to Liz Honeycutt, 2007 Gardner-Webb Homecoming Queen!

January 17, 2008

Many students chose to spend the afternoon of their snow day playing Ultimate Frisbee. While most frisbee players dressed for the weather, there were several who chose to play in shorts and T-shirts.

All classes and activities were cancelled at Gardner-Webb University on January 17, 2008, due to snow and ice. Thick layers of ice and snow covered campus's trees, sidewalks, and buildings. Everything was crystalized, and amazing sites were found all over campus. Many students took advantage by taking pictures to show their oversleeping roommates. All across campus, students were having snowball fights, building snowmen, and simply enjoying nature's beauty.

Life of the Scholar

Interdisciplinary Conference

Gardner-Webb University's Program of Undergraduate Research joined forces with our Life of the Scholar program on February 23, 2008 to host the first Life of the Scholar Multidisciplinary Conference(LOTS-MC) to which we invited students and professors from other Baptist schools. Twenty-five students from Gardner-Webb, Campbell University, and Mars Hill College presented papers in a variety of disciplines, and professors from Gardner-Webb and Campbell University gave professional presentations in a Showcase Session. Seven students received $50 prizes for their winning presentations, and two students received Honorable Mention prizes of $25 apiece.

The Dawg Pound

OH, LETS GET THEM DAWGS FIRED UP!!!

The Dawg Pound is the heartbeat of the stands during any home sporting event. This is a club of wild sports fans, who by day are normal students, but during the games are a LOUD and ROWDY crowd, screaming cheers and encouragement to the team. During the football games, after every touchdown, the first row grabs someone and throws them up in the air for the number of points scored. During the basketball games, they cheer the team and become ROWDY!

Joyful Hands Sign Choir

Joyful Hands is a choir made up of around forty-five ladies with a love for signing. Each young woman has a different level of sign expereince. The choir preforms at local churches, the Springs Alive Festival, and various community activites. The choir had an opportunity to perform on live television in South Carolina in the spring of 2007. There are many reasons each lady enjoys signing. According to Ashley Koen, one of her biggest reasons is "because it is a way to express God's love through an outlet that people find fascinating."

Carole Edwards, Miss Deaf North Carolina

On January 12, 2008, the North Carolina Association of the Deaf hosted the Miss Deaf North Carolina Pageant, which represented the Deaf and Hard of Hearing citizens in North Carolina. Miss Deaf Gardner-Webb University, Carole Anne Edwards, 20, from Apex, NC, was crowned Miss Deaf North Carolina in the Belk Centrum Auditorium at Lenoir-Rhyne College in Hickory, NC. Carole, currently a junior at Gardner-Webb, is double-majoring in American Sign Language Studies and Psychology. For the talent section, she performed in American Sign Language an expressive poem she wrote, entitled "Silence." She also won the Miss Congeniality award. She will reign as Miss Deaf North Carolina for the next two years, and this coming July, she will be participating in the Miss Deaf America Pageant during the National Association of the Deaf Conference held in New Orleans, LA. Her future goals are to pursue her Master's degree in Counseling and become a family counselor for Deaf and Hard of Hearing clients.

Math Club

The mission of the math club is to promote and engage in activities of mathematical interest within the Gardner-Webb community and beyond. The club welcomes students from all majors. Our club adviser is Dr. Olga Poliakova. One of the activities the club has engaged in is the Octoberfest (in 2007). We prepared simple (math-minded) and other games for the children and gave them a fun experience. The club is also known for her community outreach project at the YMCA Girl's club in Shelby, NC, where some club members go (weekly) to tutor middle school children in their math classes. Members of the club are working toward attending a Mathematical Association of America (MAA) Southeast regional conference (in March 2008) in Charleston, SC. Students are excited about the opportunities to engage in some fun activities at the conference like a math treasure hunt, math jeopardy and student paper presentations. --Chinwendu Enyioha, President

Sigma Zeta

The purpose of [Sigma Zeta] is two-fold: (1) to encourage and foster the attainment of knowledge in the natural and computer sciences and mathematics; (2) to recognize the attainment of high scholarship among those fitted for membership in this society.

SCNAE

The SNCAE, Student North Carolina Association of Educators, is the Gardner-Webb student chapter for future educators, which is affiliated with the North Carolina Association of Educators and the National Education Association. The SNCAE is a very service-minded group, assisting yearly with Octoberfest, Springs Alive, Scholastic Book Clubs, toy drives, and tutoring. We do fundraisers to assist local teachers in purchasing supplies for their classrooms. Also, as a Gardner-Webb club, we strive to support other GWU students by sponsoring various "Spirit Days" to attend athletic events, concerts, plays, and other Gardner-Webb functions. Finally, the SNCAE has social and professional development events to allow future educators an opportunity to gain friendships, leadership skills, attend education conferences, and learn from the experiences of other education students. The SNCAE is a strong-knit group of students who have a passion for teaching, helping others, and sharing our talents. --Erica Higgins, Co-Presdient

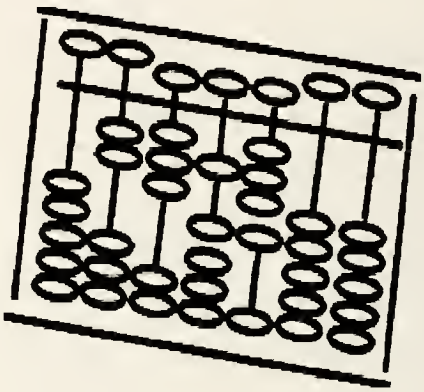
Delta Mu Delta

The Greek letters in the society's name stand for Dia Matheseos Dynamis, signifying Delta Mu Delta's motto: Through Knowledge, Power - the power to manage creatively for social and economic good. Becoming a member of Delta Mu Delta is an honor indicative of earnest, intelligent purpose and rewarding achievement.



Alpha Chi

Membership in Alpha Chi is the highest honor a student at Gardner-Webb can earn. Alpha Chi is a national honor society for juniors and seniors of good character whose grades put them in the top 10% of their classes. Alpha Chi sponsored Academic Integrity Week during the week before Thanksgiving in 2007. As part of the week's activities, Dr. Don McCabe, a national expert on academic integrity, inspired students and faculty during speeches at Dimensions and at a faculty forum. Academic Integrity Week ended with an impressive formal induction of new members, at which Kazden Sherrill was named winner of the annual Academic Integrity Essay Contest and Denise Puckerin won an honorable mention. In the spring, Alpha Chi members helped host the annual Life of the Scholar Multidisciplinary Conference and made scholarly presentations both there and at the regional Alpha Chi conference held at the Marriott Renaissance Hotel in Asheville, NC, March 13-15, 2008.

International Club

The International Club is welcome to students of all ethnicities and backgrounds. The club meets regularly for weekly fellowship as well as giving the students opportunities on the weekends to visit different historical sites around the area. They also plan activities such as ice skating, camping, game nights, and taking weekend retreats. The goal of the club is to unite people of different backgrounds and to also give those international students a sense of a "home away from home."

What is Army ROTC?

Army ROTC provides college-trained officers for the Army, Army Reserve and Army National Guard. The Army ROTC program is offered at more than 600 colleges and universities throughout the nation. As the largest single source of Army officers, the ROTC program fulfills a vital role in providing mature young men and women for leadership and management positions in an increasingly technical Army. Army ROTC is a 4-year program, divided into two parts - a Basic Course and an Advanced Course. The Basic Course is normally taken in [students'] freshman and sophomore years. The Advanced Course is usually taken during [their] final two years of college and includes a five-week Leadership Development and Assessment Course that is normally attended in the summer, between [their] junior and senior years. Leadership Development and Assessment Course will give [students] hands-on training and the confidence [they] can't learn in a classroom. The mission of Army ROTC is to "Commission the future officer leadership of the U.S. Army.

The choir was named in honor of E. Jerome Scott in the early 1990's. The choir has been in existence for 20 years and is still going strong. They have had the honor of being advised in the past by Dr. Cindy McKinney, Hamal Strayhorn, and presently Dr. Anthony Negbenebor. Some of the choir's past presidents have been Glynnese Campbell, Gregory Grier, and Sherika Eskridge. The gospel choir ministers at events both on and off campus. The E. Jerome Scott Gospel Choir believes in winning souls for Christ and ministering to the people of God. With an awesome board lead by Quinnon Isom and LaQuitta McKinney, and under the direction of Charkeita Anderson, the choir looks forward to doing great things in the future.

GWU Mission Trips

Every year, Gardner-Webb students are given the chance to participate in a mission trip. This year, students were given the chance to go to Canada, Ecuador and New Orleans for Spring Break. A group of students also went to New Orleans for Fall Break. GWU Senior Erin Dalton was given the chance to go a mission trip that was not a Gardner-Webb sponsored trip, but was helped by a fund set up by the parents of Pamela Darnell, a GWU student who passed away in 2005 and who had been very active in GWU missions. The fund helped Dalton go to Costa Rica for two weeks with the ministry Prison Fellowship. This year's mission trips ranged from working with chidren and college students to helping rebuild a community that had been destroyed. Missions

Ten Gardner-Webb students with Dr. Eddie Stepp and his daughter embarked on a 27 hour (15 by plane 12 by train) to Northern Russia in Cherepovets in the Vologda Region. For six days, we spent our time leading games, crafts, skits, and simply loving on Russian kids from troubled homes in two different regions of Cherepovets. Four days were spent in New Corners, labeled an impossible area to live in by scientists, due to the large factories and smokestacks. The apartments are extremely small and the chance to change one's future status was quite slim, but the children were alive with joy and beauty within their dreary environment.

We spent two days at the Light of Hope Center, where the children are provided with a free lunch daily and a positive place to spend time afterschool. For many of the kids, this is their one chance to play when teams come for camps. There was a good three feet of snow on the ground, so snowball fights were fun with the children and an interesting conversation piece to contrast our winters back in Boiling Springs, where we get about a day of snow each year, compared to 6 months! We were blessed with a day to tour Moscow, the famous Red Square, and the massive Kremlin.

At first, Russia might have seemed intimidating, how big it was, how cold, how gray, and how somber of a place. Yet, we gradually realized that life there could be beautiful. We saw this in the kids' eyes, in our fellow Russian Believers, and even among the smoky neighborhood of New Corners which began to feel like home. With Christ, everything has hope and beauty and we certainly saw God in Russia, but also the vast need for more believers to come to Russia's need.

The Start of a New Beginning

Gardner-Webb University Marching Band

The Gardner-Webb University Marching Band returned to the field in 2007 after an absence of nearly 20 years. The first year was a resounding success, thanks to the efforts of the students and the university. Students participated in the activities at Homecoming and all of the home football games. Special thanks should go to the tireless efforts of the Admissions office on campus. Without their efforts, the marching band would not have had such amazing early success.

Cue Lights... and... ACTION!

The Theater Department had another splendid year. Taking home four awards from the MTAs helped start off the year and helped the theater department to think big for nominations for next year for the show Martyr! Although they put on only one show for the fall semester, the theater department felt that it was well worth the effort. Martyr! a show about a young Christian who becomes a martyr for his faith, was a great source of entertainment for all. Not only was the show entertaining, but it also left the audience with a number of things to ponder. The impact of the show was not seen just at GWU, though. A representative from the Armenian church, who came and saw the show, felt that the show could be a vehicle for reviving Armenian traditions and expressed an interest in seeing it performed in Armenia.
24 Hours, Gloria Dei, and the New Plays Festival are other shows that the theater department was involved in the Fall of 2007.

English

On April 8th of 2008, the English Department sponsored a campus visit from Ravi Howard, author of the book Like Trees, Walking. Like Trees Walking had been read in the Freshman English classes earlier in the year. While on the Gardner-Webb campus, Howard gave both an afternoon and evening reading of his work. The afternoon reading was standing room only, and Howard remarked that this was the biggest group for whom he had ever read.

GOING FOR THE GOAL

As the lights go down, the noise level rises, and the college community comes out to support the Running Bulldogs football team. As fans look out over the crowd, they can spot the Dawg Pound, the cheerleaders, the dance team, and the band. It seems as though everyone knows that, on Saturday nights, the place to be is at the football game. No matter what the outcome is, our students come to show their support for the team. But what draws them to the game? "I go to the football games to go watch the game and the hang out with my friends. I also like to watch the band perform during half time," says freshman Mindy Faile. The crowd coming out to the games makes the team determined to succeed. But do they ever stop to wonder what the practices are like for these players? What is the hardest part of football practice? No matter how hard it is at times, the life of our football team makes the games worth going to. Their passion for the game and the way they carry themselves on the field is what draws the people to the games.

The team currently looks great, and the new guys coming up for next year look very promising. The team had a strong season this year, facing many nationally ranked opponents, holding out tough, and finishing strong. Swimming

This year marked the first year the women were joined by men on the water. The women set out to win their fifth consecutive state title, and marked another winning season. The men kicked off their first season along side the lady "dawgs" with hard work, long hours and strenuous workouts, to swim away with a great year as well.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

INTRAMURAL

Intramural Football is a cornerstone in a Gardner-Webb student life. Not only is it a fun time of fellowship, but it is an extreme competition and is not taken lightly--from the coaches dressing up in suits and ties or the players making plays and wearing armbands with audible plays on them. This is all out football, and is cherished by all students who take part in it or even just watch it.
